

Brian Morris

Brian is Head of Savings Policy at the Building Societies Association. As well as Savings matters, he is responsible for the Association's policy on corporate governance and co-ordination of the BSA's work in Europe. He joined the BSA in September 2003, having previously been at the British Bankers' Association (BBA) in a variety of roles, latterly Director of Consumer and Retail. Before being appointed to the BBA, in 1989, Brian spent 6 years at HM Treasury, which he joined from university with a BA Hons in Economics and Politics. Brian is married, with sons aged six and three and lives in Kingston.